

LISTEN TO YOUR HEART

I feel so privileged to be writing my Eye On Arbonne story and hope that it will inspire many people, but in particular working women, especially those in corporate America. If you are working long hours, are stressed out and not getting paid what you're worth, and are yearning to spend more time with your family, then consider taking control of your life. You have choices that will allow you to live life to its fullest. I know because I've been there and done that, before discovering that I had so many options all along. You see, I worked in corporate America for almost 10 years. Wanting to climb the corporate ladder, I went back to school and earned my M.B.A. However, circumstances changed as my priorities shifted; I wasn't willing to give everything I had or make unreasonable sacrifices just to climb the corporate ladder anymore.

Everyone needs a compelling "Why" to keep them motivated. My "Why" for doing Arbonne was huge. Wanting to be more available to my family became an overwhelming impulse I could no longer deny. At the time, I was pregnant with my second child and extremely stressed out at work. I desperately needed to find balance in my life but didn't see my situation improving any time soon unless I made the changes myself. That's when I truly opened my eyes to the options around me, eventually embracing Arbonne's business opportunity. While continuing to work full-time, maintain my home and care for my husband, my four-year-old, and our family dog, in addition to being pregnant with our second child, I became an Arbonne District Manager fairly quickly. I never planned on returning to work once I went on maternity leave. Arbonne made it possible not to.

A belief in network marketing is also crucial to success. I believed in the Arbonne products, but knew nothing about network marketing.

I learned all I could because I needed to believe this was a viable industry. Now when I meet people who are negative about network marketing, I know it's because they just don't know enough about it. I never let their incorrect perceptions about network marketing slow me down or make me second-guess what I'm doing!

Lastly, believing in yourself is an essential ingredient of success. I truly believed in myself and that I was capable of creating success in my life with Arbonne. Don't try to do this business hoping you'll be successful. Just do the business knowing that you will be successful! Make an investment in your own personal growth and development so that you can become confident in yourself. People who exude confidence and convey to everyone that they know what they are doing and where they are going are absolutely magnetic. They can't help but draw others to them. When you focus on suc-

I want to thank Petter Mørck for his spectacular vision! Because of him and his team, including Rita Davenport and Candace Keefe, thousands of people now have a way to achieve balance in their lives, along with time freedom and financial independence.

I also want to thank my new NVP Karen Priemer, my new ENVP Beverly Lambert and also ENVP Donna Johnson for their valuable coaching and words of encouragement. They gave me what I needed at just the right times!

To my big sis and Arbonne Consultant, Linda Whiteaker: Thank you for the many ways you've helped me. You are a prime example of how Arbonne products can help lead people to better health, naturally! To my parents, Eleanor and Stanley Roman, my mother-in-law, Sandy Preblich and my sister-in-law, Tammi Preblich: Thank you all for your belief in me, and for all the babysitting you do so that I can build my Arbonne business. I love you!

Last, but definitely not least, I want to thank my awesome husband Brian. Words cannot express how much it means to have your love, support and belief. I've accomplished getting myself out of corporate America, and I promise I will do the same for you! I love you, sweetheart!

About nine months after joining Arbonne, I was unpacking a box I had brought home from my previous job. In it was a 3x5 card that had the following words: “Purpose in Life: To be at peace with who I am and what I'm doing at any point in time. To help others recognize their unique talents and capabilities, and to help them develop to their fullest potential.” These words were from an exercise I had done at a workshop I attended more than a year and a half earlier, before being introduced to Arbonne. I am now living life as it was intended. Every time I read those words I am overcome with emotion because everyone should be so blessed to be living their purpose in life! When you listen to your heart, miracles will happen.
